

Disruptive Behavior Treatment (Child & Adolescent)

Definition:

The CEBC defines Disruptive Behavior Treatment (Child & Adolescent) as the treatment of youth with a diagnosis of a disruptive behavior disorder including Oppositional Defiant Disorder (ODD), Conduct Disorder, and Attention-Deficit/Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), or youth without a diagnosis who are exhibiting similar behaviors. Common symptoms may include arguing and refusing to obey rules, frequent defiance of authority, aggression towards people and animals, destruction of property, lying, theft, failure to take responsibility for bad behavior or mistakes, regular temper tantrums, hyperactivity, inattention, and impulsivity. In Oppositional Defiant Disorder, the rules broken are usually those in the family and the school, while in Conduct Disorder, the rules broken include the regulations and laws made by society. In Attention-Deficit/Hyperactivity Disorder, there is a persistent pattern of inattention and/or hyperactivity-impulsivity that is more frequently displayed and is more severe than is typically observed in individuals at comparable levels of development. The CEBC has evaluated only replicable programs that do not use medication as an essential component of treatment. The Pharmacological Treatments for Children and Adolescents with Mental Health Disorders page has links to reputable organizations that list information on medications used to help treat children and adolescents with disruptive behavior and other disorders.

Topic Area Criteria:

- Target population: Youth with a diagnosis of a disruptive behavior disorder including Oppositional Defiant Disorder (ODD), Conduct Disorder, and Attention-Deficit/Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), or youth without a diagnosis who are exhibiting similar behaviors
- Services/types that fit: Typically outpatient services, either individual, group, family therapy or other services that target youth directly or adults (caregivers, teachers, etc.) who work with these youth
- Delivered by: Mental health professionals or trained paraprofessionals
- In order to be included in this topic area on the CEBC: Program must specifically target the reduction/elimination of disruptive behaviors as a goal
- In order to be rated in this topic area by the CEBC: There must be research evidence (as specified by the Scientific Rating Scale) that examines outcomes related to disruptive behavior, such as changes in symptom levels, behaviors, and/or functioning
